Jordan is a 24-year-old humanitarian from California. Two days after his high school graduation, Jordan began his humanitarian efforts in the world's newest country, South Sudan. Working alongside Sudanese Lost Boy, Deng Jongkuch, Jordan helped to build a medical clinic in Malek, South Sudan. Next, Jordan's college professor of Arabic introduced him to the atrocities occurring in her home country of Syria. Although Jordan did not know a single person in Syria, the testimonies by his professor drew him to care. As a result, he founded Help4Refugees in 2012 and traveled to Jordan to find out how he could help the Syrian refugees in the Zaatari Refugee Camp. Since 2012, Jordan has been delivering prefabricated housing units, reporting as a freelance journalist, and helping others gain access to the camp. To learn more about Jordan's humanitarian work, please go to Help4Refugees.org.

Admission is free and open to the public.
